

Kirsty Hetherington — flute tutor

Kirsty is a graduate of Leeds University where she gained a Bmus degree majoring in performance studying flute with Stina Wilson. She also spent a year studying flute with Wally Hase at the Franz Liszt Musik Hochschule in Weimar, Germany.

After graduating, Kirsty spent five years working as a flautist in Dubai and was privileged to play for celebrities such as Bill Clinton and Sir Alex Ferguson and at many UAE royal weddings.

After a period of four years working in London, Kirsty moved to the Peak District and she now has a varied career performing, teaching and running Peak District Flute Courses. She plays regularly with the Marsyas Wind Quintet, gives duo recitals and has recently performed as a concerto soloist with both the High Peak orchestra and Sale Chamber orchestra under the baton of Richard Howarth.

Kirsty is involved in music educational publishing, and is series editor of the popular Trinity College London Musical Moments and Mosaics woodwind books.
